Application of radioimmunoassay to the quantitation of HgCl<sub>2</sub> in brain and serum. A sensitive radioimmunoassay was used to quantitate HgCl<sub>2</sub> in rabbit brain and serum. The range of sensitivity was 0-30 microgram Hg/kg, and the coefficient of variation at 30 microgram/kg of HgCl<sub>2</sub> was 20.9%. Intra- and interassay coefficient of variation were 14.2% and 20.6%, respectively, at a mean level of 80.0 microgram/kg. Using this method, it was found that plasma and brain Hg levels were increased to the same extent by sodium mercury acetate and mercuric chloride. Hg levels in serum were increased in proportion to serum protein content. No significant changes were noted in Hg levels in brain, cortex, medulla, or cerebellum after subcutaneous administration of HgCl<sub>2</sub> to rabbits. Petra Padisjuk
