Although the use of fixed-dose combinations is a good option for the control of hypertension, the variety of drugs available for this purpose implies the need for more alternatives. We herein describe the case of a patient with resistant hypertension who was treated with Iota-acetazolamide in combination with potassium-sparing diuretics. The patient achieved a normal blood pressure after two months of treatment. This unexpected finding highlights the benefits of drugs with a possible mechanism of action different from that of diuretics, thereby expanding the possibilities for the treatment of resistant hypertension.SEPTEMBER 6—The wife of a convicted pedophile who admitted to having sex with two 8-year-old girls arrested for allegedly sleeping with a 19-year-old high school student claims that the minor's behavior led to the tryst, a violation of the teens' marital agreement. In an affidavit sworn today in Cook County Circuit Court, an ex-wife of Mark Kamleiter said the sexual liaison occurred last month while the woman and Kamleiter were sleeping in separate rooms at their home. The affidavit, which was sworn before Cook County Magistrate Judge George Christakos, was filed in the case of Kamleiter, 41, who was convicted in 2008 of child pornography possession. The two girls, who are now 12 years old, were both in diapers when Kamleiter, a flight attendant for Chicago-based airline Pinnacle Airlines, was arrested. While the married parents were living in Nevada and Kamleiter was in Europe, they had a prenuptial agreement and, although Kamleiter testified that the couple would be physically separated in Nevada, they had since been living together in the same house in Oak Park, Illinois. The mother, who did not use her full name, said that the girl who was the object of Kamleiter's activities "is a poor student who was frequently absent from school." As for Kamleiter, the woman said, "he was in the habit of using pornographic magazines and movies on his lap during the times that he and I were on the couch watching television." Kamle 5b5f913d15

Discovery of 1-(2-(1H-pyrazolo[3,4-d]pyrimidin-4-yl)ethoxy)piperidin-3-yl)-2-propyn-1-one hydrochloride (HMPA, also known as PPC-37A, or GSK797512) by a New High Throughput Screening Assay. During the process of discovery of novel non-ATP competitive P2X(3) receptor antagonists, we found that 1-(2-(1H-pyrazolo[3,4-d]pyrimidin-4-yl)ethoxy)piperidin-3-yl)-2-propyn-1-one hydrochloride (4) possessed the activity and several properties that might make it a useful lead. Herein, we describe the discovery of 4 using a HTS assay that has been developed to measure the potency of antagonists at the P2X(3) receptor by monitoring changes in intracellular calcium concentration in human embryonic kidney (HEK) 293T cells stably expressing
