Using the Quick Selection tool You can select objects or groupings of objects in a photograph by clicking and dragging them on the screen. If you drag from one object to another, your selected objects are linked. You can change your selection by holding down the shift key and dragging, or by using the up/down arrow key shortcuts that I explain a little later in this chapter. You can also do some selecting by pressing the spacebar or Ctrl+click.

Q: How to seperate an ArrayList of objects into 2 arrays (object & index)? I have an ArrayList that contains information for a table. I need to retrieve two Arrays. One is the Object[] where all the values for a row reside in. The other is an ArrayList of indexes for each of these objects. This is what my data structure looks like in order to create the first array. These arrays must be retrieved after I call my search method. private void search(String str) { for(int i = 0; i list = new ArrayList(); list.add(new Students("

The subject matter disclosed herein relates to a power supply system for a power train of a hybrid vehicle. The power train may include a power source, such as a combustion engine, an electric motor, and a transmission system. The power source may provide power to the electric motor, which may be used to propel the hybrid vehicle, for example, via a transmission system. Hybrid vehicles may include power sources, such as combustion engines and electric motors. A transmission system may be interposed between the power source and the wheels of the vehicle. The transmission system may receive power from the power source and subsequently transmit power to the wheels for propulsion of the vehicle.Hepatitis B virus infection is very common among patients on hemodialysis in Taiwan. To determine the prevalence of hepatitis B virus (HBV) infection among patients on hemodialysis in Taiwan, sera from 70 chronic hemodialysis patients in a medical center were tested for HBV serological markers. A core sequence of the X gene and a complete genome were amplified from purified DNA of HBV-positive samples using PCR and cloned and sequenced. HBV DNA was detected in 42 of 70 (60%) hemodialysis patients, and the majority of them had a history of blood transfusion. HBV genotype C was detected in 24 patients. Four patients had a subgenotype C2. In addition, 10 patients had core mutations from L180M+M204V, M250V, and N236T. Eleven of these core mutants were also detected in the N236T mutant with core sequence and in the wild-type HBV from one patient. Seven patients were found to have genotype C. One patient had genotype B, and 2 patients had genotype A. The mutations associated with core amino acid deletions and the development of mutations in the hepatitis B surface antigen were not detected. More than half of the patients were infected with hepatitis B. The core and surface sequence and mutations, and the various genotypes of HBV were not linked with the age and duration of hemodialysis treatment. Since many carriers of HBV developed infection after receiving blood transfusions, blood products and kidneys in Taiwan, a compulsory vaccination strategy should be mandatory for all hemodialysis patients.Q: WCF service calls another WCF service I have been trying to add a WCF Service to an existing application.
