

Avast Antitrack Premium Free

March 11, 2020 4€” A new study found that a privacy feature found in Avast and AVG's antivirus software was actually exposing their data. AntiTrack was. In a study conducted by a team of security researchers from the University of Notre Dame Data Security Institute, it was found that the privacy feature in Avast and AVG antivirus software was exposed to a third party, i.e. a company that could use the information collected for ad targeting. They presented these results at the annual meeting of the Computer Security Research Association.
