Tony Kenyon Tony Kenyon (born 13 April 1970) is a British author and psychotherapist. Biography Born and raised in Woking, West Berkshire, Kenyon was educated at a London Boarding School and followed his parents into the family business: an upholstery and curtain manufacturer. Kenyon left at the age of eighteen to travel the world, but returned in 1995 to work with mental health clients in the NHS. In 2007, he received the Commonwealth Award for Professional Excellence in the practice of psychotherapy and since then has worked as a consultant psychotherapist. In 2013, Kenyon received his MA in media studies from the University of Oxford. Career Kenyon's first novel, Lila, was published in 2016. Its protagonist, Lila, is a young woman emerging from a sixteen-year marriage with a calculating, controlling husband who wants to have a baby. In Kenyon's book, their baby's conception is the result of a trial of in vitro fertilisation. Kenyon has written articles and reviewed books for The Guardian, Psychologies, and Contemporary Psychoanalysis. Bibliography Lila, 2016 The Girlfriend Experience, 2017 The Marriage Agreement, 2018
