
Parag Parikh Book Download

Several of the topics he covers in this book include : Emotions in investing - . I don't like being controlled and I don't like being controlled by other people. With investment banking in this case, the risks are minimal because banks typically offer different types of products to both individuals and institutional investors and do not offer too many products to their clients, meaning they have no control over the client. These investors are often outside the bank and therefore have no control over the bank.
