Q: Do Jews use ID cards for travel, or is that just a Christian thing? I'm a Christian who is planning to travel in Israel within the next year, and I've heard that Christians can obtain travel document from the Ministry of the Interior that are given to non-Jews. It is my understanding that non-Christian Jews don't need travel documents to cross over to Israel, though that may be wrong. So do non-Jewish Jews need travel documents to enter Israel, or is that just a Christian thing? A: As you probably are aware, Jewish people do not need travel documents to enter Israel. See: Why do Jews Need Israeli Visas? If someone is a Jew, he or she doesn't need an identity card (tikun mamash) to visit Israel, because non-Jews do not need an identity card for entry to Israel. If you are specifically talking about tourist travel to Israel, you are almost always going to have a visa. See: What kind of passport is required for entry to Israel? Currently, visas are not required for tourists. Q: How to compute the 3rd derivative of a 3D matrix? I would like to find out if there's a good way to compute the third order derivative of a 3D matrix from its first three derivatives. For example,
