Sequence analysis of the 484 bp proximal promoter region of the human aquaporin-1 gene. The basic structure of the 484 bp proximal promoter region of the human aquaporin-1 (AQP1) gene and the identification of a putative TATA box are described. The transcription start point in HeLa cells was mapped to a G+C-rich region located in the proximal promoter. Base sequence analysis revealed a 4 bp cap site, a putative TATA box, and several possible transcription factor binding sites. The expression of the complete 549 bp AQP1 gene-luciferase construct in COS-7 cells gave four to fivefold higher luciferase activities when compared with the construct lacking the first 215 bp of the 5' untranslated region. This region contained several transcription factor binding sites and increased the promoter activity by more than 90%. However, no major part of the region between the transcription start point and the cap site was involved in the enhanced promoter activity. Taken together these results demonstrate the existence of essential sequences for basal promoter activity in the proximal 5' untranslated region of the human AQP1 gene.¹

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a light source that emits incoherent light, an illumination apparatus, a display apparatus, and a method for manufacturing a light source. 2.

Description of the Related Art A light source that emits incoherent light, such as fluorescent light, is used in various areas such as illumination, display, and medical applications. In recent years, a light emitting diode (LED) has been widely used as a backlight of a liquid crystal display device and a light source used in the medical field. The LED is used not only for illumination, but also for display. A backlight of a liquid crystal display device includes a back surface emitting type in which an LED board is disposed at the back surface of a display panel. The emitting

I am new to Git and the use of branching. I'd like to start a new branch to manage changes to a project. My current source branch is * testBranch and I want to create a new branch that I would like to continue to develop * master Is there a way to create a new branch like this without having to do the following each time I wish to create a new branch? git branch (to_do_something) git checkout to_do_something git checkout -b master git branch -m master git checkout master If there are any conflicts during the merge - I don't want these to be pushed to the master branch. A: There are a few ways to go about this. The easiest is probably to do `git checkout -b to_do_something` and run the rebase in one go with the following command: `git checkout -b to_do_something git rebase master`

The disadvantage of this solution is that if you wish to switch to master after you've done your work on the new branch, you'd need to switch back to the original master branch and then do the rebase again. The advantage is that there's no need to give the master branch a new name. Another way is to always work with the master branch, and just create new branches off it. I don't recommend this, but you can easily use a separate repo to maintain different branches, and then just merge them into your master after your work is done. This would be the most appropriate approach for version control systems that work in this way, like SVN, and is what I would recommend if you

SpyShopper, is a specific, stylish, single bed for the Locker Room. Don't let the name fool you! This single bed fits the SpyShopper better than any other storage shelf on the market. It offers the most bed space of any solution on the market. Additionally, this bed installs easily in most kids' rooms and best of all- it can be removed and stored in a closet or garage. Your Pick: SpyShopper The SpyShopper Bed is engineered from high quality, easy to care for, Vitex Fiber — the first and only air dry fiberboard on the market. And what's that? Your SpyShopper is also constructed from recycled paper! Did we mention it's Vitex Fiber? The SpyShopper Bed also features a hidden storage cabinet as well as an easy-access space behind the mattress that includes a removable nightstand. Additional Details The SpyShopper Bed is exactly the same dimensions as our Luxury Locker Nightstand. Standard Bed

Over 12 Similar to the Luxury Locker Nightstand in terms of functionality, the SpyShopper Bed is built with the same durable, easy care Vitex Fiber and 50 percent recycled paper body panels as the Luxury Locker Nightstand. Although the SpyShopper Bed is made from recycled paper, it's also constructed with pure fiberboard. And the patented Vitex Fiber technology protects the bed against moisture, mold, mildew and staining, making it a high performance storage solution for the teen room or any other room in the home.
