Forever Home is a complete game with music and a story set in the near future (early 2070's) and taking place on and around a luxury space liner called 'The Homestead'. The game offers a hand crafted soundtrack for the game, featuring one song for each area of the game. The game was originally released in late 2012 and sold on the Next Games website with a soundtrack credited to Sean Murray, but now has a third and final part of the soundtrack released as a free update. As usual with a purchase you get both the DRM free version of the game, along with the original soundtrack. You can read some of the theory on the game itself on this website: [...] Info about the player Lance in our 'Forever Home' characters page: "Lance has a peaceful life on a space liner, but in 2070 his life changes when he witnesses the slaughter of a large crew of pirates during a kidnapping. They held them in the heart of the ship for two years before they attacked during the nighttime. The fight lasts for half a day until finally the pirates are all dead and the Homestead was saved. Lance talks to himself that one day he's going to be a hero. He sees how he can save the Homestead, and he believes in himself to be able to do it. However, he doesn't think that he can save the crew of the Homestead at first. When he finally tries to do it and end up failing it turns out that he's not a hero after all. He gets a rescue plan organised, but he also ends up the chief suspect in the pirate killings. He ends up on the run and doesn't know where he is going anymore. He has a plan, but he's not certain that he's going to be able to implement his plan, or maybe he's just going to make things worse for himself. Can he save the crew of the Homestead? Or is he just a victim in his own life?" How You Can Help: If you wish to support our efforts, feel free to purchase the game, or any of our future titles: "Right clicking the game will buy it from the official site, or by the original developer "Next Games":

like to create and design games for a living. For the last 6 years, I've been developing games for mobile platforms, like Android and iOS. I've also worked on various game engines, so I've learned a lot about programming. My friend, Daniil, helped me on this project. I really like his style, so it was fun to work together on it. On the screen of the geoscope terminal, a familiar face appeared. "Col. Tigh," said Tom. "I can't believe we're finally doing this." "Major," said Lucas. "The blue button, it's charging the energy weapon." "I know," said Tom. "I think you said that already." "You think we have time?" said Lucas.
