! Buckle up your seatbelts and prepare yourself for sensational (and sobering) news! Wall Street is at war with itself, and the conflict is raging all over the “financial markets” in the form of handwringing for the Fed to rescue the U.S. economy, postpone the next recession, fund government agencies to defeat climate change, and much more. But this internal battle has now made its way to D.C. and shook the very fabric of our democracy. Today, after carrying bipartisan support for years, Republicans in Congress have begun taking an antagonistic, obstructionist stance against not only President Obama, but also the Federal Reserve, the U.S. Treasury Department, the U.S. Congress, the Cabinet agencies and every federal law that Obama is trying to implement to help the economy and protect the middle class. This is more than Obama versus Republicans or Washington versus the people—all of Washington is now on one side against all of America on one side. In short, the good guys and the bad guys are no longer the Democrats and the Republicans—they are a smorgasbord of corporate looters, multinational corporations, lobbyists, Wall Street gamblers, and the desperate, grasping, right-wing corporate raiders who wield power over all of us with well-oiled and powerful lobbying and money-laundering machineries. We have witnessed this sort of systemic, deliberate, grassroots-sized revolt, which has swept away decades of bipartisan political consensus in Washington, since the late 1930s. Then it was a New Deal revolt, then an agenda during the Reagan era (zeroing out federal departments and agencies, selling off the military and social programs, decoupling SS and Medicare from federal government), and now it is a tea party-inspired revolt. Resistance—often violent, but sometimes quiet and sober—is growing all over the country as people reject corporate strategies that work even when you have all the money in the world, right-wing media pulling your strings, and Congress on their knees. The long, slow slide into deeper debt and capitulation to Wall Street was just the beginning, as the bankruptcy, debt, and privatized police states are now gaining momentum on a global scale. Here’s what the reality is: every economic downturn, unemployment (or the lack thereof), a lawsuit, a credit rating downgrade, a revenue shortfall, a natural disaster, a debt ceiling threat, or a loss of national security
