As a middle-aged adventurer, you've spent your life on the road. Carrying around your gear, you've struggled through nature and man-made obstacles to finally arrive at the city. But now, you've decided to call it a day: you've got to settle down. It's time to find a place to live that's convenient for the city, a house with a good view of the city, ideally something with a garden and a barn where you can raise horses. So, what you're looking at is an oversized American city map with colorful terrain sprites and factory warehouses located around the Great Plains. At the moment there are just two factories in the game: a diesel engine factory (DME) and a soap factory (APF). What makes this game so interesting is that the city has been designed to work exactly like a real city: traffic moves exactly like it would in a real city (including buses and taxis), the road layout follows a logical street layout, and shops open and close depending on the time of day. People drive cars, walk to work, ride bikes and scooter, and take public transport in exactly the same ways as their real-life counterparts. The game is designed to work in both real and fictional time: the game time is set to the current real time during the day, and the "real time" will freeze at night when it's time to sleep. You play as a middle-aged adventurer. You're going to have to get a job and earn some money, so you're going to have to commute to work each day. But once you get a job, it will be up to you to find a house. Although you work in the real time, your character is created in game time. You can choose the characteristics of your character (age, gender, profession, height, etc), the appearance of your character, and various other details. Because you're middle-aged, you don't start out with a lot of money, and you have to work to earn some. So you're going to have to go out and get a job. When you get a job, you'll have to manage the time it takes to get there and back. You'll need to drive or take a taxi. And since you're a middle-aged adventurer, you'll want c9d1549cdd

Customize your look before you take off by selecting which Icon and Classic skin suits you would like! Features: 12 Vocal Tracks 36 Instrumental Tracks Completely reworked with an eye for quality, these BGM tracks have never sounded this good! Wizard Dorkanu and RPG Codex will join forces on Friday in a live webcast to talk about a string of recent news that includes Persona 3 FES, Gensou no Linebarrels, and Narcissu 10th Anniversary! The two will also chat about the games in the spotlight, including The International Sportsman and History Lesson. They'll also be giving away copies of each game! We'll start the show off with the latest news of the two of us teaming up! Exclusive 12-Track DEMO Sessions The International Sportsman is a social game about making friends and have new friends. The Sportsman is a unique game in that players have the ability to vote for the best and worst images in the world. Just like our own lives, we can choose to be part of the good or the bad, and set the world right. Right, wrong, or something in between? Choose a sport, like baseball, soccer, or tennis and dive headfirst into the action. It's a hectic trip of course, and we've got your back with interactive virtual allies to use when necessary. As you climb the ranks, you'll end up winning games against three other players, and even bigger events against the other three nations competing! It's a game that's about friendship, and it's a blast! History Lesson is a 'time traveling' JRPG (Japanese Role Playing Game). The goal is simple - get the girl! And how do you do that? Grab her, get her, beat her up if you have to! Sounds like every young man's secret dream? Well, you're in luck! You can get there! I've been hired to escort a special young lady to school, and I'm her guardian! One of our goals is to reach out to the entire world through these games, and we're hoping you'll visit us! This includes folks in our own country and around the globe, as well as folks in Japan! Wizard Dorkanu working on Narcissu 10th Anniversary! Narcissu 10th Anniversary is the highly anticipated final chapter of Narcissu! We

, Mind Your Buddhi (zombie bananas) During a particular six hour period at my local Trader Joe's yesterday, I had my Zombie Banana Card. Presumably its overall objective was to purvey vegetables while still paying a cool $1.99 for the privilege. I'm sure it will still be there next week and the week after that too. I enjoyed purchasing it. It brought back memories of shoplifting Junior Mints in high school. The list of items that are exempt from sales tax in California include sales of food or items manufactured from food products, certain drugs and medical devices, a single meal at a restaurant prepared in a licensed facility, certain services, such as dry cleaning, laundry and photocopying, and certain hotel rooms, even if adjacent to an occupied room. Since, typically, more items than that are taxed, California law specifically exempts "[w]ood for fuel, products of wood fired heaters,  homemade fruit and vegetable pies, or fruit pies made from canned juice and canned fruit." [emphasis added] Well, uh, okay. There are certain limitations on some items that are exempt from sales tax, regardless of whether the item is mass produced or handmade. Specifically, homemade fruit and vegetable pies are exempt if they are prepared from canned juice, canned fruit, eggs, milk or honey; cheese or dairy products; commercially canned (i.e. from a sealed can) soups, chili, stew or other meals; restaurant dishes as long as the total weight of the meal is equal to or less than a specified amount per meal, or as long as "an average adult male consumes less than 10.75 ounces of food per meal."... What's more, those selling homemade fruit and vegetable pies for entry-level commercial premises - such as restaurants - are required to "[d]escribe prominently on menus and on business cards or other literature that the product is prepared from canned fruit, canned vegetables, or both." [emphasis added] So I guess if you are incapable of holding the door open for a senior citizen, or if you are a freeloader and too lazy to open the door for yourself, a Punk Rocker substitute which actually costs less might be just as acceptable. What is it with people? Homemade fruit and vegetable pies are exempt "[w]ithin one year of the recertification of the purchaser..." for the

"America's favorite road race that never ends", the USA Pro Superbike Championship, known as the Daytona 200, comes to Gran Turismo. This prestigious event, which is the highlight of the entire USA calendar, will be held at Daytona International Speedway on 15-17 February 2011. To compete in this event, players will have to find the best route from the car park to the circuit, through the famous "Stadium Of Speed" and its many hairpins. With the generous use of content from the Pikes Peak International Hill Climb, the USA Pro Superbike Championship will prove to be a particularly interesting feature of Gran Turismo 6, which marks the 10th anniversary of the incredible game. The USA Pro Superbike Championship marks the latest addition to the extensive range of events and circuits available in Gran Turismo 6. This year, for the first time, the Gran Turismo series is celebrating its 10th anniversary. It is therefore naturally very special that the USA Pro Superbike Championship has been included in the title, as a fitting tribute to the ten years of Gran Turismo 6. System Requirements:

PC (Windows 7, Windows 8, Windows 10) NVIDIA GTX 760 or AMD R9-290 or better 5GB of RAM 16GB of free space (on the hard drive) It may run on lower hardware specifications, but to run at a high enough resolution (3840x2160) and FPS (i.e. 60) will require a GTX 760. The game works well on older hardware, but we do not recommend it. The game is graphically intensive. Jailbreak/
