Milo and the Magpies Soundtrack is the soundtrack album to the live-action feature film Milo and Me (2009), starring Tony (Patrick Brammall) and Deceit (Liz Argall). The album was credited to Melissa Gustafson and Thomas Nunn as the music supervisor, and credited to Gustafson and Nunn, as composers. The rights to record, release and distribute the album were acquired by BMG from producer The Sound Lounge. The soundtrack charted at number 4 on the Australian album charts and has sold over 30,000 copies. Unlike the majority of songs heard on the Milo and Me soundtrack, none of the compositions were performed nor written by Acton Pope. A majority of the songs sung on the soundtrack have some sort of urban influence, including rap, dance-pop and reggae. Background After seeing a popular Scottish television show on road safety, Horsecollar, producer Grant Davies (The Sound Lounge) was inspired to produce Milo, which was pitched to the Scottish company to become a features-film. Davies was able to keep hold of the rights, which enabled him to produce Milo. The music supervisor for the soundtrack was Melissa Gustafson, who signed Tom Nunn to write and produce a track for the film. Though not being credited, Taylor Duryea was featured in the film as the background singer on the track. Track listing 1. Intro and Milo theme (Christopher Tarl) 02. Intro and Milo track (Kittie) 03.
