DoA features a unique combination of the RTS and tower defense genres with a fast-paced gameplay and strategic gameplay that's both addictive and challenging. Featuring a variety of puzzles, secrets, and traps, players must manage a powerful base, upgrade it with powerful towers, and collect resources while putting up defense against a threat that may be no match for you. Due to the nature of the game's innovations, including some drastic changes to the traditional gameplay of the tower defense genre, DoA offers a varied range of challenges that players are sure to enjoy. Action - It's Black Friday at Sherk's Garage! Wait no more, all Black Friday deals are expiring in 15 minutes, so what are you waiting for? Start shopping! - Just in case you have 2 hours left, you may consider shopping over at Amazon. But hurry up, the deals expire in 5 minutes! A brand-new tower defense strategy game from the masterminds of DoA: Defend Ardania, now in English! DoA: Defend Ardania takes the tower defense genre into a new realm. Featuring three different race gameplay styles, players must oversee unit production and upgrades while assembling the most effective army from one of three playable races - each with unique locations, towers, and units - throughout the world of Ardania. But without magic, a fantasy game is little more than a toothless lion, so a wide range of spells will be available for players to decimate their enemies and protect their forces. DoA: Defend Ardania contains many complex elements and a vast array of systems that have all been carefully crafted to ensure hours upon hours of entertainment and intense action for newcomers and veterans alike. DoA is an easy to learn, yet hard to master, tower defense strategy game for all the family. Be sure to check it out! A new brand-new tower defense strategy game from the creators of Defend Ardania: Exochang's Tower Defense Game In Exochang's Tower Defense Game, you'll be able to control massive armies, conduct extensive research, discover new technologies, defeat powerful enemies and build your own legendary defenses that will keep your opponents at bay! - Unleash the massive might of your armies: Command a massive army of air, land and sea vehicles including air-breathing dragons and epic tank battles. In addition to the massive military forces at your disposal, you can control several types of special warfare units and add

What's new:

Enjoying art shouldn't be an emotionally overwhelming, nauseating, self-indulgent spectacle. Sometimes artists' work is disappointing. Or worse, insulting. When art inspires us, there is much to be proud of. When it's the other way around and we find it harmful, insulting, or just plain boring, why settle for it? How dare they inflict their own reality on us. Surely, we, as art lovers, have our own reality. That should be enough. Perhaps some of us have our own reality. But art is widely used as a political tool, as a salve for emotional wounds, and as fodder for designer-based beauty campaigns. Sometimes the "art" in question is none of these things. The internet is rife with trolls who are quick to post the most stupid and offensive pieces of art, throwing them in the faces of those they'd like to hurt. We have many options to rise above this. Many of us deny ourselves the pleasure of reading or looking at art because so much of it leaves us furious. Some art acts like it's there just for our entertainment. And some is insulting - hurtful to the artist and damaging to others in her family. The first step is to recognize that art that is inauthentic or unsound is bad. We don't need art that reinforces xenophobia, homophobia, white supremacy, or basic human cruelty. You have your own reality. Those outside your reality have their own reality. That should be enough. Here are a few examples of art that caught my eye recently, and I responded to with a strong "F-k Off." Catford F--k Off F--k Off F--k Off $10,000 worth of potatoes from Carnegie Mellon University To me, this screamed: "This is my reality. If you want something different, you can just leave." F--king Art Salad This one raises the question of what we're compensating for with art. How much art you put out of your mind is up to you. Don't rely on someone else's, either. If you have something to say, say it. I think that is what I think I see. I do have an ear for shitty art. I don't need to have my fingers splayed across my brain
