In the Mythological Past the first members of the Elden Ring set out upon their quest for Elden. As they traveled, a foretelling came forth stating that they would meet with a dark and evil force called the Reaper. The Reaper would drive them from their path to take from them the only hope for a future and at the same time destroy the Elden Ring itself. In order to counter this prediction, the Elden Ring organized a special group known as the Elite Guard to guard and protect the Elden Ring. This group consisted of the strongest and most talented members of the Elden Ring. However, the mission assigned to this group was not to fight and defeat the Reaper but to save humanity from the ravages of his influence. Thus, the Elden Ring and the Elite Guard had a plan to drive the Reaper from the land and establish the Elden civilization by a pact with humanity. After all, the prophecy did not state that they would meet with the Reaper, but with the Elden themselves. This side-mission was to rebuild the Elden civilization and at the same time ensure the protection of the Elden Ring. In this way the Elden Ring managed to save the life of mankind and save their future. The game follows the story of the rise and eventual fall of the Elden Ring, as told by two characters. These characters are Anka and Angelica. How the Fate of Humanity Was Saved by the Elden Ring "The Elden Ring was created centuries ago, but its destiny was to save humanity. In order to achieve its mission, it spent many years gathering power, but also devising the most powerful weapon to defeat the dark power of the Reaper." In ancient times, there existed the kingdom of Atlantis and a dark and evil place called the Underworld. The two kingdoms were in constant war, but many brave members of the kingdom of Atlantis continued to resist the armies of the Underworld and the Dark Power. They persevered and fought with great courage, until eventually these brave members were driven back to the kingdom of Atlantis. In the Kingdom of Atlantis, there resided the most fearsome and powerful people in the world. These people were so powerful and had so much power that they had the ability to control or destroy anyone who might oppose them, at will. A gigantic, exceedingly powerful person was seen among this group. The person wore a golden crown, a frightening black cloak, and a dark scar that covered the entire body of the person. In addition,

Activity Hello everyone! So it has been quite some time since I made a post in the Manifesto thread, I hope it is ok for me to come back here. So here is my question, i want the classic colours So what I really mean is: I want the green background, as it is done in the Europa Universalis II And the the weapons to have the classic colours, white for edges, black hilight and light blue hit area. The rest of the colours should stay the same as they are imo, the yellow most important part of the portrait should stay in the game still cause it is the ELDEN brand. I did not get an answer in the manifesto thread, so why not try on the subreddit and god speed you all Hello everyone!
