My students and I all really like games and we thought it'd be fun to take something we had been working on and push it to the next level. It's my second game and I've already learned a lot from the process! I'm hoping this game will one day find its way to some top developers and eventually to the App Store!   Live for the long run and enjoy! ... a little more about me... I'm a game developer by trade, but am currently working as a bus driver at the moment. I've worked with a lot of people in the software development industry over the years, and though I'm no expert, I have an extensive portfolio. I learned to program as a kid playing games on the Atari 2600 and in Game Maker on the N64. In my free time I like playing music and writing. I got into writing a couple of years ago and have written many poems and songs since then. I just finished writing a song with my songwriting band, Ilse & the SteelEDdies. You can check us out here: It would be nice to see you in game!... I know I've met some of you in real life. ... ot as much about this game... I decided to work on Witchball about a year ago. It's an exciting concept that came to me on a trip to SteamWorld Dig, and it's something I've wanted to work on for quite some time. Witchball came together pretty quickly for me thanks to Game Maker's game creation tools. I've also learned a lot from working with a buddy of mine from high school, who is now a game designer. He helped me with concepting, storyboarding and writing the rules for the game. I don't own a Mac, but I can almost guarantee you the game will work just as fine on Mac. The only differences you will see are that you won't be able to change the resolution to anything higher than 800x600 and since OSX doesn't support controller sharing, you'll have to connect two xbox controllers together. Your Mac should be able to run games made with Game Maker just fine though! Thanks for playing Witchball, - Matt... ... and c9d1549cdd
