

Sometimes the three clarinets and the three trombones double up as well, and sometimes the alto saxophone replaces one tenor horn. Up to the middle of the 20th century, such an instrumentation was sufficiently structured and led to playing in such a way that experienced musicians could recognize each other, and everybody could learn to use it in a surprisingly short time. One can observe various techniques such as two simultaneous rolls of the chorale forms, as well as contributions to the ritmic formation of the basic statement by the trombones, in particular. The instruments can be described as playing between very close and very distant ranges and are experienced as a quadraphonic sound. During the vocal part, the tone of the three-part instrumentation can change completely. The historical composition Leviathan by Giacinto Scelsi, the first piece presented by the Hagen Kammerorchester in their first performance, for brass band on 13 May 1934. The title of the piece comes from the first verse of Psalm 104, with the text Yea, thou spakest of thy sanctuaries in the days of old, when the children of Israel went up into the hill country (Genesis 28:17). After a short introduction for an introduction of about fifteen minutes, the piece is built on an independent polytonal chordal idea, so that it is possible to simply listen to the piece. At the end, a return to the opening theme in a smaller form is combined with a six-chord variation. The chapter of this book entitled Polka, Polenkraut, Mordkas and Kernpolka, ... dealing with the polyphonic construction, encompasses the large-scale style, from the practice of the Gruppen of Polen, the Bohemia in the middle of the 18th century, to the present-day northern and central styles of polka in the Czech Republic, Germany, and Slovakia (An Essay on Historical and Comparative Polka Music). The style is characterized by polyphonic passages, a free alternation of regular and irregular meter, various keyboard instruments and instruments from the brass family, and timbres that differ from those of other folkloric dance music. All of this is possible without the presence of a vocalist.

Werde Polka beim Volkstum!(Lieber Präsident!). What makes this record, the third in the Polka Trio series, so great, is that the bass, as the melodies are performed with the powerful bass lines of the cello. And the drummer, with an irresistible kick, as the cello and bass are played like two partners at the piano.
