barry gave us a peek into a few of their rehearsals on saturday night fever on the documentary, but this was the full monty with both brothers looking and sounding very much like themselves. this video is a true fan favorite. in fact the brothers had to fight to keep the rights to the clip, and have it available to the public for the past 20 years! they did 3 bars of the chorus in the middle, but it was the rest of the song that was the best part of it all. i remember it being in my house before i went to college, but i can't remember if i was still in an elvis costello video watching that entire performance.

either way, that song is great, and it came from an electric guitar, a sitar, drums, a bass, and a 3 piece, and that was it! it was just so rockin'! they had largely dismissed press suggestions that the tour was merely a promotional exercise, with barry saying only: " i've no intention of having this be a farewell. it's going to be a long time in the future and we're going to see each other again. i certainly don't want it to be a one-off." on february 3, 2000, they came to europe, to 'pre-sold' their european dates in ireland, england, scotland and wales, and then, in the middle of march, to their first joint shows in the usa. in april they travelled to the far east, playing in guam and japan and, in july, they again played in the usa, this time in san francisco, los angeles, chicago and new york." it was only a few weeks after that final performance that barry announced that the tour was over. " i'm flying back to australia in may and that's it. i don't want to go anywhere near this country or this tour ever again. i've got nothing else to do." 5ec8ef588b
