The skills necessary to develop a successful blockchain business are expansive. Along with the technological knowledge, blockchain developers need to be skilled in the nuances of business strategy, effective communication, proper governance and solid ethical judgement. This bootcamp and the hands-on, collaborative experience it offers is designed to groom future developers to build and lead teams that push the boundaries of what is possible using blockchain. IMBA is the global leader in Design Thinking. Our curriculum helps students develop their creative problem-solving skills to create better products, services, solutions, and experience. With our Bootcamp, you will walk away with real design skills like making a prototype, developing wireframes and mockups, prototyping, and fine-tuning and testing your product. Bootcamp participants will gain first-hand experience in the design process by using tools like Trello, Axure, Figma, and Keynote. Our alumni include top startups and Fortune 500 companies and have consistently hired more than half of the graduates from the bootcamp. IMBA Bootcamp is a great way to get a jump start on your design career. The average starting salary for experienced designers is $70k with a wide variation in opportunities and pay across industries. To qualify for the BFA in Interior Design it's required to have taken a portfolio development class and have five years of experience in the field. Bootcamp prepares you with the skills you need to acquire the BFA in Interior Design at The Art Institute of California - San Francisco.
