Public Class Connector Dim cl As SqlConnection Dim ps As New SqlParameter()

```
Public Sub New() cl = New SqlConnection("Server=192.168.0.200;Database=MyDb;User=ss;Password=123qwe;") cl.Open() For Each item In ddl.Items.ToList() If item.Selected = True Then ps = New SqlParameter("@id", Convert.ToInt32(item.Value)) ps.Value = item.Text cl.InsertCommand = New SqlCommand("INSERT INTO Table (id,name,location) Values (@id,@name,@location)", cl) cl.InsertCommand.Parameters.Add(ps) 'Console.WriteLine(ps) Console.WriteLine(cl) cl.Connection.Close() cl.Connection.Dispose() End If Next End Sub Public Sub Dispose() If cl IsNot Nothing Then cl.Dispose() End Sub End Class

I thought that the connection should be closed in the Dispose function, but it does not seem to be, and the program freezes. I was using the debugger, but I have tried adding a timer to see if that was an issue, but it did not stop the program from freezing. When debugging it, when it goes through the For Each loop to create the SQL commands, then the program freezes when it goes to add the commands. I tried disposing of the connection in the constructor, but it will not allow me to do that because I am using Newing the connection and I do not want to close it twice. I looked at the other similar questions but none of them had the same issue so I thought I was doing it wrong, but all of my code seems to be right. Any help would be appreciated.
