I know, its pretty much impossible for developers like us to give the same feedback to the X-Plane developers as we have to the MSFS community. We simply dont have the time because we currently have full time jobs to do. We are working everyday and 24 hours a day. If we go for days without answering to the community on a regular basis, it is because we are completely focused on the work we have to do, which cannot be moved, until we get the payment done. But we will always try to explain our point of view to the community, as we wish to get informed for those people who ask us things about X-Plane. We will not be able to maintain X-Plane on the github account. We are looking for a new team to do it on the Github account. But we will do it right, and we will continue to update it with every new release of the flight sim. As we say, we use the same rendering engine than CFS2, so in that sense, every new version of X-Plane has to be on top of CFS2 and it will take until the end of the 2018 or next year before we finally deliver a new version of X-Plane. But we really want to find good people to take over that task and continue to work on X-Plane. When we find the best team, we will release all the source code. We are the only team that does it. This is what we do for a living and we wish to continue doing what we love. But first we want to pay all our bills! If we find a good team to complete this, we can announce it on FSElite and X-Plane forums. But you can only be the first one for a while, we will look for other people to finish this task but it will take time.
