Allows you to easily create keyboard shortcuts to specific tasks. Users can specify the key combination(s) for the action, a comment (description of the action) and the action to be performed when the key is pressed. By default, KeyMACRO will attempt to execute a macro when the key combination is pressed. If the user has defined a custom keystroke, such as assigning the Ctrl + P key to a macro or creating a macro for a particular application, the custom macro will be executed instead.

System Tray Icon: There is a system tray icon for easier access to KeyMACRO. The icon will display the current status of the application. The Tray icon can be controlled by clicking the System Tray Icon. A short message will be displayed there when the active macro is running or suspended.

To Resume suspended macro: To resume a suspended macro, you will need to click on the short message in the System Tray Icon. The selected macro will be resumed automatically.
